A Teuching Imitanes of the Great Man's Good Heart-diseas. Many an act of kindness has been left widone because it carried with it a seeming loss of dignity. The follow-ing letter of a lady of Springfield, Ill., shows the self-forgotfulness and kind-ness of the great man we all delight to The incident took place after r. Lincoln had been to congress. We might query how many representatives of 250,000 men would forget themselves enough to do the same thing. "The very little children," the lady writes, "knew him, for there was not one of them for whom he had not done some kind deed. My Best impression of Mr. Lincoln was made with a little friend for my first trip alone on the rallroad ears. It was an epoch of my life. I had planned for it and dreamed

The day came, but as the hour of the train approached, the hackman, through some neglect, failed to call for my trunk. As the minutes went on I realized, in a panie of grief, that I should miss the train. I was standing by the gate, my hat and gloves ou, sobbing as if my heart would break, when Mr. Lincoln came by. "'Why, what's the matter?" he asked, and I poured out all my story.

"How big's the trunk? There's still time, if it isn't too big," and he pushed through the gate and up to the door.
"My mother and I took him up to my room, where my little old-fashioned trunk stood, locked and tied.
"Oh, ho" he cried. 'Wipe your eyes and come on quick." "And before I knew what he was going to do, he had shouldered the trunk, was downstairs, and striding out of the yard. Down the street he went as fast as his long legs could carry him. I trotting behind, drying my tears as I went. We reached the station in time. Mr. Lincoln put me on the train, kissed me good-by, and told me to have a good time. It was just like him."—McClure's

A CHEERING COMPANION. The Comfort a Prisoner Derived from His

"What a small thing will keep a man from insanity when in solitary confinement?" said a prison warden re-'I read the case of a prisoner who somehow in solitary confinement had managed to keep his silver watch secreted on his person. For a time he kept up very well, and, as his crime was a terrible one, we did not feel like celeasing him, but one day he became violent and crazy, and we finally lecided to remove him to the hospital. In his cell we found the watch with the main spring broken.

"It seems that as long as the watch continued to tick in his ear at night he felt as if he had a companion and his dark cell did not seem so solitary. He caressed the watch fondly, talked to it and it talked to him. Hour after hour it spoke and he was anabled to endure the terrible loneliuess with this cheering and gossipy companion. He told me afterwards that he put words to that ticking and the watch seemed almost like a thing

But one night something snapped and its voice ceased. He wound it up anxiously and still it was slient. It was like the death of something beloved, the passing away of the dearest thing on earth. Canson, Nev., March 18.-Robert Fitzsimmons is the champion pugilist of the world. He has claimed the title for over a year, but yesterday he demonstrated his right to it in a fair fight. He met his one great rival, James J. Corbett, in the squared cir-cle, and in the 14th round he "knocked him out." It was a gallant battle, and the best man won. The victory was not gained without a struggle. In fact, victory did not seem possible for Fitzsimmons until the last moment of the battle. Many had thought he was slowly going to pieces, but when the opportunity came he had been watching for the end of the fight came almost in a single blow.

When Corbett finally arose with the assistance of his attendants and recovered sufficiently from his shared condi-

Corbett afterwards broke away and rushed at Fitzsimmons a second time, but this time instead of attempting to renew the fight, he implored his victor to give him another chance, and to accept another challenge from him. This was refused, and warm words followed. Fitzsimmons was borne away with all the glory of his new won vic-tory, and Corbett left to return to his such a measure ever since it was me in San Francisco, carrying with him the despair of defeat.

It was a great contest, but notwithstanding the cheers for the victor, the majority of those who witnessed it could not but feel a sense of disappointment at the result, believing as they did that victory was taken from orbett at a moment when he seemed sure of gaining it himself.

"For more than three years I was a sufferer from stomach trouble. I had no appetite for anything and became so weak and emaciated that I could not attend to my household duties. I was treated by the ablest physicians in Cherokee, but received little or no benefit. A neighbor seeing that the doctors had failed to do me any good advised me to try Pink Pills. You know that when you are sick all of your friends know of some sure cure remety which they insist upon you taking. I had little faith in any medicine but I finally consented to give the pills a trial. So I sent to Boyer & Graves' drug store and got a hox of the Pink Pills and began to take them. I took two boxes without feeling much improvement and was shout to discontinue their use when Fred urged me to try see her box. I did so and before half of therd box was taken I felt so much better that I became greatly encouraged and kept on taking the pills according to directions. When I got the fourth box of Pink Pills my health was completely restored, and I feel better to day and weigh more than I have for a number of years. I keen a box of Pink Pills in the house and would not be without them. The trouble not give them a fair test, but abandon them because they do not get immediate relief."
